

CONSULTING ENGINEERS

Following is a partial listing of engineers in the area who have provided waste storage and manure transfer design to landowners. This list is not intended to include all consulting engineers, only those we know have worked with area landowners in recent years. Some of these companies may no longer be interested in providing assistance. Individuals seeking the assistance of a consulting engineer should discuss their needs with them, ask for references for similar work, and contact those references.

TECHNICAL SERVICE PROVIDERS

The Natural Resources Conservation Service maintains a list of certified Technical Service Providers (TSP) for each practice and county. The list can be found on the website: <http://techreg.usda.gov> Go to the link "Find a Technical Service Provider". Then select Wisconsin and the county where your project is. From here you can select a category and service to get a list of certified Technical Service Providers. Any engineer registered in Wisconsin may provide you assistance, however if your project is NRCS cost shared, the costs for using a TSP may be partially reimbursable.
